The business manages regional drop off points and transports 80-120 bales weekly to Elders in Melbourne, with grower payments made within seven days. Operations run from two sheds – one for warehousing, the other for wool processing, including a solar powered system. Wool is received onsite three days per week, with two days allocated to pick-ups.

Run by two vendors with casual staff and contractor support, the business maintains strong industry relationships and consistent trade, ideal for those with wool or agricultural experience.
